August 2017

Dear Students and Families,

Welcome back! I hope you had a relaxing and peaceful summer. I am excited to get back in the classroom and I am looking forward to a productive and challenging school year.

Incoming 6th grade students will be challenged with navigating through their first year in the middle school environment. This includes class switches among the three middle school teachers, as well as more rigorous and demanding homework and assessment expectations. I am excited to see this new group of 6th graders meet this challenging environment head on and with enthusiasm!

The 7th and 8th grade students will continue to rise to new and challenging educational opportunities. With each year, the expectations of the middle school students increase to ultimately prepare the students for the next step in their educational path, high school!

Just a friendly reminder, the two assigned summer book reports are due Friday, September 8th. The reports will count as a Literature grade for the first trimester of the school year.

I hope to see everyone at back-to-school night! I will discuss curriculum and expectations in detail that evening.

Enjoy the remaining days of summer vacation. School days are right around the corner!

Warm regards,
